I. Summary of Proposed Amendment to Existing Regulation and the Intended Effect.

The Office of the State Bank Commissioner's (OSBC) proposed amendment to K.A.R. 17-24-2 will reduce the amount of fees on mortgage businesses in the state of Kansas to submit new or renewal applications for both principal places of business and branch offices. It will also reduce the fees for mortgage loan originators to submit new or renewal registrations to this office. The amended regulation will also abolish the fee for mortgage business or loan originators to submit amendments to the Office of the State Bank Commissioner. The intended effect of this regulation is to reduce the financial burden on mortgage businesses and loan originators that are licensed or registered in the State of Kansas.

II. Whether the Regulation is Mandated by Federal Law.

This amendment is not mandated by federal law, nor does it exceed the requirements of any applicable federal law.

III. Anticipated Economic Impact on the Office of the State Bank Commissioner, Other Governmental Agencies, Small Employers, Private Citizens or Consumers.

The only cost of the amended regulation will be in the form of decreased fee payments made to the OSBC. The decreased amount of fees paid by the regulated entities will reduce the amount of licensing and registration fees paid into this agency to bring the OSBC budget in line with projected costs for future fiscal years. This amended regulation will not have any impact on other governmental agencies.

The impact of the amended regulation on the regulated entities, many of which are small employers or private citizens, will be positive. The regulation decreases the fees paid by these entities and adds no additional regulatory burden.

Proposed

IV. Summary of Alternatives Considered and Why Amendment to the Regulation is Necessary.
